

Handwritten red characters in two vertical columns. The left column contains four characters, and the right column contains five characters. The characters are stylized and appear to be variations of a single symbol.

Handwritten black characters in two vertical columns. The left column contains four characters, and the right column contains five characters. The characters are stylized and appear to be variations of a single symbol.

Handwritten red characters in two vertical columns. The left column contains five characters, and the right column contains six characters. The characters are stylized and appear to be variations of a single symbol.

Handwritten black characters in two vertical columns. The left column contains five characters, and the right column contains six characters. The characters are stylized and appear to be variations of a single symbol.